COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

There is a person in the area who is interested in hauling off old cars providing he can pick up 12 to 15 vehicles at one location. He will not pay anything for these vehicles but he is equipped to load them and if a person has enough on their property he can pull them together with a skidder. If anyone feels they have the required number, they could contact the town office, we in turn will then place them in contact with this individual.

We are going to try and find a central location where people could haul old cars until there are enough for a load. We need some place that is not exposed to the highway yet would be accessible with a truck.

A large number of voters turned out in Bethel. It was reported to be the most who ever voted locally. There were 1,069 at the polls with another 163 voting absentee. There are now 1,674 people on the voting list.

Among those in town to attend services for Charles E. Merrill on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Merrill and members of their family, Harrison; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, Portland.

Board members absent Monday evening were: Raymond W. Seames, Greenwood; Mrs. Jeannine Fleet and Paul Wight, Newry.

The next regular session of the S.A.D. 44 directors is scheduled for Monday evening, Nov. 20.

Y., Mr. and Mrs. Gasser are the new managers of Sudbury Inn. Both are widely experienced in hotel and inn operations having spent several years in the business. They, with their four year old son, Chip, are already busy getting things ready for a planned opening date of Nov. 27.

The "new look" at the Sudbury will include a varied menu under the supervision of Mrs. Rae Bartholomew and served by waitresses attired in floor length printed uniforms with long contrasting colored pinafore aprons. REBEL GRIDDERS NUDGE MEXICO 6-0 TO CLOSE OUT UNDEFEATED SEASON

Coach Dick Collins' Telstar Rebels completed the first undefeated season in the school's football history last Saturday, by defeating the visiting Mexico Pintos 6-0 in their final Mountain Valley Conference game of the season.

In his second year at Telstar, Collins directed the Rebels to a 5-3-1 record a year ago, their first winning record since the school opened in the fall of 1963. The previous year Telstar had broken even at 4 and 4, with one tie.

The win over perennial MVC power Mexico was the ninth of the year for Telstar and their fifth shut-out. The rugged Telstar defense allowed just five touchdowns all season on their way to their first Mountain Valley Conference crown.

The first half was dominated by the hosts and every time it had the ball it found itself inside the Mexico 30. However the Rebels were unable to muster any offense and were forced to give the ball up on two occasions or downs. The good field position was due mainly to a poor Mexican punting game.

The lone score of the game came on a one yard plunge by Paul Farrar in the second period.

It was an evenly played contest in the third period but Mexico dominated in the fourth stanza.

Mexico blocked a Wayne Cammings punt and recovered on the Telstar 44 and drove to the nine but relinquished possession on downs as the stalwart Telstar defense held.

Later in the period a poor Telstar punt was taken down again to the nine and on a fourth and goal from the four Rick Westleigh knuckled away a Mexico pass on the goal line.

Telstar totaled 129 yards rushing and passing while Mexico managed 101. Farrar and Doug Brooks were outstanding on offense for Telstar while Al Seaman, Tim Rosenberg, Frank Howard and Kevin Trivard sparked off defense.

Telstar managed to connect on only two of seven passes, both coming from Pete Blake to Al Seaman for 29 and 23 yards respectively.

Date: Thursday returned home Thursday after being a patient at Remond Community Hospital.

GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

At twilight time twice this week the sun left a pink glow in the waters of the pond. With the change of time the night comes sudden and soon. I have tried sometimes to mark the moment when day slips into night but haven't been able to do so. The darkness takes over the valley and soon it raced with the wind all afternoon piling up over the hills. They ran like mad up and down the valley. I never knew which got there first: the rain came in and beat them both.

Another evening a star appeared clear and pure above Patch Mountain and as I came up the driveway, the moon slipped above the hills glowing on the water like a candle from the sky. In the distance a dog barked. The brief warmth of the sun had gone and the coolness of the November night had arrived. But the mountains were there dark against the sky.

Mountains of my youth
Green and fresh and sweet
Where villages take root
And pine with heaven meet
Mountains purple shadowed
In an autumn day
When clouds to earth are bowed
And leaves drift on the highway
Summits white in winter
Dusted with red at sundown
With hemlocks green forever
On slopes where scarred rocks lie down.

Frances Fletcher
Gave Frolic says, "thus there is no beginning and no ending." Only a three blending day into night fall into winter into spring beauty to the eye that beholds it.

My chickens are very busy these days. They are such delicate creatures that when you hold one in your hand you feel as if you were holding air. I watched one sit down in the feeder. His legs disappeared, his tail spread out flat behind him. Then this little fellow as bigger than the last one I had seen, pecked away with a tremendous sound. This cheerful, hardy, little black cap appeals to most persons. His "cluck-dee" does the work of a matter how cold the weather or how gusty the wind. I have often wondered why these peeped birds spend the winter with us but I'm glad that they do. They and the hatchlings are a source of reassurance in winter's end.

The catfish is rather timid as he comes around to his dinner of polished peas. Mark came and snatched him. His eyes are dark and shiny. He seems very content spending much time with his head down. He even likes to be held and he even likes to be held. He even likes to be held. He even likes to be held. He even likes to be held.

Many of the hunters went to Ketchikan yesterday to be ready for the first crack of light today.

Well we may have more rabbits.

Watching their flight patterns can give the heart a lift. They are a lovely mystery, which I'm sure I can never solve. Perhaps then it's enough just to enjoy them. If life had no wonders, it would be rather flat. Keats said, "Beauty is truth, truth beauty. That is all ye know on earth, and all ye need to know."

We'll look for them again in the morning when the sun is rising over Noyes Mountain. They'll bring a bright new day in which to start a new beginning.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:
 Why lie? Sorry I'm late on writing this, but have been waiting and hoping someone with authority would write a denial of the report about the cause of the Fish and Game Department's helicopter crash.

Why does anyone have to report hearsay stories?
 It was reported there was ice in the carburetor and Dick did not know about the carburetor heating device. I don't see how ice could form at low altitude in 60° weather and he did know about the heating device. He had to know about it before he could check out for his license.

I have been asked many times, why was he flying a helicopter? That was just part of his job and he did what he could to help anyone. He received his training from the Wiggins Helicopter School and had piloted one many hours.

The helicopter was not out of gas as some reports gave the impression. (But not the Bethel Citizen or Kennebec Journal).

I've been told that a different pilot had to set the craft down once for lack of power but was lucky to be over a better place to land.

The Fish and Game is an excellent Department and have done all they could to ease the pain. They are the ones to report the facts.

Dick never liked to give reports to newsmen because he did not feel that they often got into the news as he gave them.
